Secretary of State.

REPORT

OF THE BOARD OF CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINERS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1888.

The Honorable J. A. Chapleau, Q.C., LL.D., Secretary of State :—

SIR —In conformity with the requirements of the Civil Service Act of 1885, Section 58, the Board have the honor to submit the following Report:—

In consequence of certain amendments to the aforesaid Act, made during the Session of 1888, the Entrance Examinations, until then held twice in the year, viz., in the months of May and November, are now restricted to one, which is to be held in the last named month. The reasons for making this change will be found stated at page 11 in the Report of the Board for the year 1887, and in the following words: "The very large number of candidates reported by the Board as having passed the "Entrance Examinations, beginning with November, 1882, to the present time, and "the impossibility of providing places in the Civil Service for so many, seem to "indicate the expediency of applying some check to the influx for the future. The "most simple and effective mode will probably be the limitation of these examina-"tions to one in the year."

Until the passage of the amending Act of 1888, General Promotion and Special Promotion Examinations might be held at any time, and, by reference to previous Reports of the Board, will be found to have been held at all seasons of the year. One General Promotion Examination in May is to be the rule henceforth.

The order of proceeding, consequent upon the amendments, necessarily brings up the Promotion Examination first, and, as usual, it was held during the third week of May in 1888.

It may be proper to add that the promotion candidates are examined first in certain subjects, termed "Obligatory," and which they must all take, viz : Penmanship, Orthography, Arithmetic, Composition, and Duties—that is, the duties they have been performing, or may be called upon to perform if advanced to the situations they are aiming at. To these subjects are added ratings for "Efficiency," or the efficiency exhibited by them in the past, and these ratings are entrusted to the Deputy Heads of Departments, who must, of necessity, be the best judges. To the "Obligatory" subjects the Deputy Heads may add any or all of the following, viz.: Geography, the Constitution of Canada (the British North America Act), Book-keeping by Double Entry, and Précis-writing.

The scale governing the Promotion Examination is as follows :—

For 3rd Class men, a minimum of 30 and an average of 50 marks.

For 2nd Class men, a minimum of 40 and an average of 60 marks, and

For 1st Class men (aspiring to Chief Clerkships), a minimum of 50 and an average of 70 marks.

The number of candidates who came up to the Promotion Examination in May last was as under:—

At Halifax, N. S.	10
St. John, N. B.	3
Charlottetown, P. E. I.	2
Quebec	9
Montreal	9
Ottawa	42
Kingston	3
Toronto	12
Hamilton	4
London	8
Winnipeg	10

	117

Of these 103 passed successfully and 14 failed. The candidates belonged to the undermentioned Departments and numbered as follows:—

Customs	3
Post Office	91
Interior	1
Justice	1
Finance	4
Militia and Defence	4
Railways and Canals	1
Agriculture	2
Secretary of State	3
Indian Affairs	2
Privy Council	1
	117

The papers in connection with this examination, and inspected by the Board, numbered 1,009.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.

The abolition of the May entrance examination was, no doubt, a great disappointment to a very considerable number of candidates, and involved the Board in a large and troublesome correspondence, but, it was clearly productive, to some extent, of the anticipated results, viz, a diminution of the number of candidates as compared with previous years. The number present at the two examinations held in 1887 was 1,088; while the number in attendance at the one examination in 1888 was 637. The total number who applied for admission was 841, but, apparently, more than 200 could not, at that busy season of the year, leave their other avocations in order to attend. In addition to the 637 who took the preliminary and qualifying subjects, 103 candidates, of the latter class, undertook options; so that the whole number at the three branches of the examination was 740.

Copies of the papers prepared for submission to the candidates at the Promotion examination in May, and of those presented to the candidates at the Preliminary, Qualifying and Optional subject examinations in November, together with the names of the persons who passed successfully the three last-named ordeals, will be found in the Appendix.

The Board deem it proper here to remark that, generally speaking, the candidates who presented themselves at the qualifying examination in November last, were very much under the average of the proficiency exhibited by the candidates on former occasions. There were notable exceptions, but a considerable proportion were wholly incompetent, and the fact of so many ill-prepared persons offering themselves, seems to indicate a very inadequate appreciation, on the part of the youth of the country, regarding the requirements of its Civil Service.

During the six years of the existence of the Civil Service examinations irregularities of more or less gravity have been occasionally practiced or attempted, and, as the Civil Service Act embraced no provisions for the punishment of such offences, the Board, early last year, deemed it advisable to recommend certain supplementary clauses to the said Act, which, in their judgement, would operate to prevent the repetition of those offences. The recommendations were entertained, and the following penal clauses were enacted at the Session of 1888 :—

"2. Whenever the Board are satisfied that any irregularity or fraudulent practice has obtained at any examination held by them, or by any person deputed by them to hold the same, they may summon before them by an instrument signed by the chairman or acting chairman of the Board, and may examine under oath or affirmation, any person who, in their opinion, is in a position to give evidence in relation to any such irregularity or fraudulent practice; and if the person so summoned neglects or refuses to appear, or having appeared, refuses to be examined upon oath or affirmation concerning the premises, or refuses to take an oath or affirmation, or having taken the oath or affirmation, refuses to answer such questions concerning the premises as are then put to him, without offering any just and lawful excuse for his refusal, the chairman or acting chairman of the Board shall be vested with all the powers conferred in like cases upon a Justice of the Peace by section thirty-two of 'The Summary Convictions Act.'

"3. Every oath or affirmation required for the purpose of such examination may be administered by any member of the Board.

"4. If any person is proved by such inquiry to have been concerned in any fraudulent practice, or to have been guilty of any breach of the regulations made in virtue of section thirty-one of this Act, the Board shall report the same to the Secretary of State, who may thereupon cause such person's name to be removed from the list of persons who are found qualified.

"5. Every person who, at any examination held under this Act, personates any candidate, or employs, induces or allows any person to personate him, is guilty of an offence against this Act, and is liable, on summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or to a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, and, if he is employed in the Civil Service, to be dismissed therefrom.

"6. Every person who surreptitiously procures from any printer or other person and every person who, without authority, furnishes to any other person any examination question paper or any other paper relating to any such examination as aforesaid, is guilty of an offence against this Act, and liable, on summary conviction, to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding six months, or to a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, and, if he is employed in the Civil Service, to be dismissed therefrom; and no such person shall be allowed to present himself at any subsequent examination."

From the above quoted amendments, it will be seen that extra and responsible duties, involving the exercise of much careful thought and, probably, of much time and work, have been imposed upon the Board, thus largely counter-balancing any diminution of the more mechanical labor which, it is anticipated, may result from the reduction in the number of entrance examination candidates. The Board indeed regret to say that grave irregularities occurred at the last examination which, it is probable, will come under the cognizance and operation of the said amendments, and in relation to which inquiries are now being instituted.

The undersigned have the honor to remain

Your obedient servants,

J. THORBURN, LL.D., Chairman.
A. D. DECELLES.
P. LESUEUR, Secretary.

CIVIL SERVICE OF CANADA.

PROMOTION EXAMINATION.

WRITING.

Tuesday, 15th May, 1888, from 9.30 a.m. to 10.30 a.m.

The Candidates are required to observe the Rules strictly.

Value.	RANCHING.
100	Although Stock-raising can be carried on successfully in nearly every part of Manitoba and the North-West, there are sections of the Territories which are particularly adapted to Ranching on a large scale, notably Wood Mountain, Cypress Hills, Hand Hills, Porcupine Hills, and the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, which afford, beside a rich pasturage during the whole year, an abundant supply of the purest water, in springs and rivers; elevated plateaux, which give freedom from annoying insects during the hot season of summer, and deep-wooded valleys and ravines, furnishing perfect shelter from the storms of winter. The districts mentioned are known to have been the wintering ground of numberless herds of buffalo in days past, and it is an admitted fact that these animals, after feeding through the greater part of summer and fall on the more southern plains in the United States, as far south even as the valley of the Platte River in Nebraska, on the approach of winter moved hurriedly northward to the region of light, dry snowfall, where protection from the storms of the season, and an abundant supply of naturally cured fodder could be found in the numerous valleys and ravines. The Ranching Regulations of the Dominion Government are liberal in the extreme, the main features being that the lessee, after securing his location, shall within two years of the date of his lease, place and maintain upon the leasehold at least one head of stock for every ten acres of his holding, paying therefor a nominal rental of two cents per acre per annum. A large district containing nearly 10,000,000 acres has been set apart for horned cattle and horses, upon which sheep are not allowed to run. The ranching interest, although at present in its infancy in the North-West Territories, is growing very rapidly. While but a short time ago the live stock of the country could be counted in hundreds, we find that there were, according to the census of 1885, at the date of enumeration, 24,456 horses and mules, 86,528 horned cattle, and 19,398 sheep, while large droves of stock of all kinds are being continually brought into the country from Montana and other southern districts, as well as Ontario and the East.

PRÉCIS.

Thursday, 17th May, 1888, from 10 a.m. to noon.

NOTE.—The following article forms part of a report from Mr. Hector Fabre, Canadian agent at Paris, on the possible extension of the trade between Canada and France. The candidates must treat the paragraphs separately as they are numbered, giving their real substance in about one-third of the printed matter.

PARIS, 26th February, 1885.

"1. SIR,—I have deemed it my duty, during the intercourse I maintain with men of business in France, to keep the strictest reserve with regard to the proposed Franco-Canadian treaty, which has, at various times, been the subject of negotiations with the French Government.

"Though repeatedly asked to discuss the question, I have thought it prudent not to allude to it in any way in the journal (Le Paris Canada) which I have been publishing for nearly a year in the leading journals of Paris, the columns of which have been kindly placed at my disposal, or in the public lectures I have given. In conformity with my instructions, I have confined myself to asserting the claims of Canada, in view of the advantages it affords as a field for European emigration, the excellence and variety of its products, affording the most advantageous opportunities for the enterprises of energetic business men; calling attention to the great public works that have been undertaken, especially the Canadian Pacific Railway and the fertile regions it opens to settlers in the North-West, and lastly, diffusing, as widely as possible, a knowledge of everything that appeared to me likely to advance the credit and good name of Canada and its several Provinces, in France and in Europe generally.

"Nevertheless, I could not, in the course of private conversation, stop my ears to the reception of ideas with which individuals favored me on the subject On the contrary, while confining myself entirely to the theoretical side of the question, I made a note of all I heard, in order to ascertain the impressions made in political circles and among business men."

"2. Our commercial relations may be seriously endangered by the adoption of treaties between foreign powers and by the modification of their present Customs tariffs. It is necessary, therefore, to find means of insuring the prosperity of our export trade, and guarding it against tariff alterations by commercial treaties covering lengthy periods, protecting it against injurious effects of foreign treaties which may afford special advantages to our rivals, and by creating new outlets for our commerce.

"Moreover, there can be no surer way of promoting the interior development of the Dominion. And without a flourishing external trade, the success of the great railway undertakings and public works which have, up the present time, absorbed our resources, and the attention of the Government, may, if not actually jeopardized, be seriously delayed.

"The effect of an expansion of our commercial intercourse would be to greatly promote the colonization of our public lands by immigration; it would also benefit in a like degree, our industrial and agricultural interests. Public credit itself would of necessity be enhanced."

"3. The subsidies granted to new lines of steamships clearly show, moreover, the importance attached to it by the Dominion Government, and their confidence that valuable results will ensue from these undertakings. The concluding of advantageous commercial treaties is a far surer means of insuring the usefulness of these lines, by furnishing them with the elements necessary to their existence, than subsidies, which must, of necessity, be limited and temporary.

"It is to the continent of Europe, more especially, that the Dominion Government should, it would seem, direct the efforts of its commercial policy. Canada possesses there, strictly speaking, but one market, the English market, which is no longer sufficient.

"If, for any cause whatever, such, for instance, as the existence of a war in which England was involved, our sole European market were closed, we should be greatly at a loss, and it is easy to foresee the extent and gravity of the crisis which would ensue. We should find ourselves, moreover, at the mercy of our neighbors, on whom we should become dependent and who would of a certainty, compel our traders to pay dearly for their services as brokers.

"Without supposing that such a state of affairs is likely to come about, it is well to begin now to take example from our neighbors, to follow them into all the markets in which they have established themselves, and compete with them in the disposal of products which are common to both countries; in short, we must extend to all the markets in Europe the competition carried on between Canadian and American traders in the English market."

"4. There are several reasons which seem to indicate that our first efforts should be directed to concluding with France a convention regulating our commercial relations with that country.

"The French market is the most accessible to our trade; our farm products, lumber, minerals, fresh and preserved fish, and even some of our manufactured articles, are more likely to be well received and largely consumed there. The state of the Customs tariff of that country renders it possible to secure a highly advantageous position for Canada; the concessions to be made by us would leave unimpaired the system of protection we have adopted and only imperceptibly affect the public revenue."

"5 In addition to these and many other reasons (and notably the immense resources in capital and men with which France can supply us) which it would take too long to develop here, comes a last reason, which would be sufficient to show the expediency of renewing now negotiations which were merely interrupted—and that with the sincere desire of a favorable issue—viz., the approaching inauguration of a line of steamships between the two countries.

"The establishment of this line, in fact, furnishes a good opportunity in justification of fresh steps on the part of the Dominion Government leading to a renewal of these negotiations, and an additional argument in favor of obtaining better terms from the French Government: the Canadian subsidy granted to the company."

"6. Holland, Denmark and Greece are now the only countries which have not made commercial treaties with France. No country situated outside of Europe has concluded a treaty with her.

"The Customs duties established by the international treaties constitute, in France, the schedule of duties called the conventional tariff. The only products admitted to the conventional tariff are the products (natural or manufactured) of the European territories of States under treaty with France.

"The most favored nation clause relates to everything concerning the transit, storage, export and re-export, local dues, brokerage, Customs formalities, samples, manufacturers' designs, and to everything connected with commerce and manufactures.

"All countries not mentioned as having treaties with France are subject to the general tariff.

"Such is, at present, the position of Canada and the United States.

"7 Canada having no differential tariff, the admission of France to the same treatment as the most favored nation would make no change in the present situation. And on this point we should be gaining nothing in return for the advantage that article of the treaty would give us in France. But in the event of negotiations with the United States for the conclusion of a reciprocity treaty, we might find ourselves impeded in our freedom of action. It would, therefore, be necessary to provide or that contingency, and stipulate distinctly that Canada reserves to herself the right to conclude a treaty with the United States, and would be bound to make France a party thereto only in the event of our granting the same privileges to a third power.

It must be remarked, in this connection, that the 'most favored nation clause' would place us in a better position than the United States, the latter being subjected to the general tariff of France, and would perhaps inure to our benefit in any future negotiations with them."

"8. There is, perhaps, a chance of obtaining, moreover, from France reductions on other articles, which would strengthen still more our privileged position as compared with the United States, on which I would insist as the chief benefit we should derive from a commercial treaty with France An examination of the American trade with France shows the products in which Canadian competition might be brought to bear. The combined export and import trade between the two countries amounted to no less than 755,300,000 francs in 1882, being the 4th in importance for France, and coming immediately after England, Belgium and Germany"

"9. The exports from the United States to France for the same year were 390 000,000 francs, exceeding by 25,300,000 francs the importation from France to the United States. The figures are as follows:

Exports from the United States to France:—
Natural products or raw material	208,800,000	francs.
Food pooducts	166,900,000	do
Merchandise, unenumerated	8,100,000	do
Improts from France to the United States:—
Natural products or raw material	41,600,000	do
Food products	21,500,000	do
Manufactured products	284,600,000	do
Merchandise, unenumerated	17,300,000	do

"10. Canada must strive to secure its share of this vast trade; its geographical position, the superiority of its canals, and the general advantages afforded, during the season of navigation, by its rivers and maritime highways, justify us in attempting to direct a portion of the trade of the west for our own benefit. The new French line of steamships, and above all, the privilege of a French tariff specially reduced for the exclusive benefit of Canadian exporters, could not fail to help largely in attracting the trade of the west with Europe (both exports and imports) by way of the St. Lawrence."

"11. What Canada should look to in this case is to take care that she is not treated worse than other countries. Now, Germany, Belgium, Italy and Austria, to say nothing of the United States, export to France cereals to the value of 344,400,000 francs; live stock to the value of 178,400,000 francs, and horses to the value of 28,800,000 francs, and we can rely on it that these countries will bring a salutary amount of influence to bear upon the decisions of the French Chambers and Legislature. If a reduction were granted to one of those nations, Canada would be certain to enjoy it also, in virtue of the clause embodied in her treaty."

"12. It would also be well to ask for a reduction on sewing machines, furniture and other articles in wood, preserved meats and fish in boxes. The imports of fresh and salt meats into France from the United States, which had risen in 1880, to 43,400,000 francs, fell in 1882 to 2,400,000 francs. The reason of this is found in the fact that the importation was prohibited on account of the appearance of trichinæ. Many persons who were well informed as to the whole matter look upon this as simply an act of retaliation against the United States and a pretext taken advantage of by the protectionists. It is extremely important that we should strive to get our Canadian products of like nature admitted without restriction and, if necessary, under a reduction of the general tariff."

"13. Within the last few years the knowledge of Canada has made great progress in France. Those who have paid attention to what has taken place must see that public opinion in France has really turned its attention to our country as a land of promise, towards which the eyes of all are directed.

A number of articles, quoted, in most cases, from our Canadian papers, and particularly from the Paris-Canada, frequently appear in the press of Paris and of the Departments. It is easy to notice in Canada itself, though many must pass unnoticed (cabin passengers not being included in the emigration returns), an unusual influx of merchants and French travellers of distinction, all of whom express the intention of establishing business undertakings, purchasing lands and investing capital in our country. And with due allowance, it must be known that many of these plans have been realized already, and that the country has already benefitted largely therefrom."

GAME IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

British Columbia has, perhaps, a greater variety of game than any other part of America. There are several distinct kinds of grouse and a great variety of wild fowl, some of them being peculiar to that region. Quail and snipe are killed both on the islands and mainland, and the common deer of the country abounds. The so-called elk (the wapiti) is found principally on the mainland, as well as the cariboo, and the mountain sheep and goat are in all the ranges. The Rocky Mountains are the home of the grizzly bear, but he too is killed throughout the mainland, as are the common black and cinnamon bears. The mountain sheep and goats afford excellent sport, and the flesh of all those mentioned, excepting the grizzly bear, is excellent food. The country must always remain in parts a rich fur-hunting ground. Trapping is still a favorite way, with some men, of making a living, and it pays good wages. On the mainland there is excellent trout fishing, and every bay and shallow of the coast is stocked with fish of various kinds. To the sportsman, as to the settler, it is essential that he should see the country before determining where he will work Having made his choice he can then acquire the information necessary to govern his movements.—From " Information for Settlers," &c.

SIMPLICITY.—DARWIN.

Virtues such as simplicity are often found to be only superficial; when the mind becomes unhinged by sorrow or despair the self consciousness of the natural man is revealed. When Mr. Darwin lost his favorite child at Malvern, he gave way to no public expression of his loss; the gravestone under the cedar to the north of the Priory Church bears only, in addition to the ordinary information, the simple and touching expression, "a good and dear child." Again and again it has been our fortune to see those words, and every time we see them they move us more and more. This genuine simplicity extended itself to every action of his life. Never was there a man who thought so little of fame or who so little thought he deserved it, and never was there one to whom the advice of Mark Pattison—"Shun above all that worst of slavery, the resting your happiness on the good opinion of others"—could be less appropriately given. Evidences innumerable of this central characteristic are to be found in the letters, as they were in the correspondence with Mr. Hancock.

We call it the central characteristic, for it is that from which many others flowed. It found expression in the "intense and almost passionate honesty" on which Prof. Huxley has insisted, for Darwin saw things as little through a glass darkly as mortal can ever hope to see them; it led him to see his own faults so distinctly that he was able to admire others unreservedly, to recognize his errors, to accept criticisms, and to avoid controversy; and it brought him, lastly, the esteem and admiration of the world, for "honor," as Solomon tells us, "shall uphold the humble in spirit.—The Athenæum.

HALLAM'S MIDDLE AGES.

"Here we have for the beginning the history of France, from the conquest by Clovis to the invasion of Naples by Charles VIII.; a masterly presentation of the state of society, the custums and manners of the people, and the vicissitudes of government in that country—the wars and invasions, the struggles, defeats and triumphs of France from the early times of Charlemagne, and of Hugh Capet, down to the decline of the feudal system in the early part of the fifteenth century. Here, too, we have a picture of ancient Germany, as well as of France, in the rise of the feudal system. The value of Mr. Hallam's history, in these, as in other points, being his painstaking accuracy, which stood at no difficulty in journeying and laboriously searching out the truth, and his absolute candor in statement. The second volume deals with England, beginning with the Anglo-Saxons, and going on through the Conquest, and the wild story of the various kings. In all this history we get the pictures of the English people, their home life and ways, in those rude days; and more yet of the law and government, of England. Then comes a history of the Ecclesiastical Power during the Middle Ages; a chapter of first importance in its bearing on England's domestic and political life and history."

NOTE.—The candidate's work should not be less than one-fifth or more than one-third of the printed matter. One-fourth would be about the proper length. The real substance of the whole argument (not a great deal of one portion and little of another) should be given, and nothing else will be accepted as satisfactory.

THE NORTH PACIFIC SEAL CATCHING INDUSTRY.

1. By the prescriptive right of occupation the territory of Alaska was, until 1867, recognized as a Russian possession, at which date it was purchased by the United States, so that it now forms part of the American Union.

2. In 1821, or 47 years before the transfer, the Emperor of Russia issued an edict assuming to grant to his subjects "the right to the pursuit of commerce, whaling and fishing, and all other industry on all its lands, ports and gulfs, including the whole of the north-west coast of America, beginning from Behring Straits to the 51st degree of northern latitude; also the Aleutian islands to the eastern coast of Siberia, as well as along the Kurile Islands, from Behring Sea to the South Cape of the Islands of Arup, viz., to the the 45°50' of northern latitude,' and also prohibited "all foreign vessels not only to land on the coasts and islands belonging to Russia, but also to approach them within less than 100 Italian miles and the transgressor's vessel was subject to confiscation, along with the whole cargo.'

3. The edict having been communicated to the Governments of other nations, and among others to the American Secretary of State at Washington, Mr. Quincy Adams, who then occupied that office, expressed great surprise and vigorously protested against the extraordinary pretensions so set forth. In his judgment it was indispensable before any authoritative delimitation of the boundary between Russia and the United States was promulgated "that the same would have to be arranged by treaty between them"; and, moreover, "that to exclude the vessels of American citizens from the shore beyond the ordinary distance to which territorial jurisdiction extends (3 miles) had excited still greater surprise." Mr. Adams further inquired of the Russian Minister on what "grounds of right, upon principles generally recognized by the laws and usages of nations," the claims of Russia were warranted?

4. The answer of the Russian Minister was to the effect that the possessions of Russia in the north-west coast of America were opposite to her possessions in Asia, and that they considered the intervening waters as a shut sea (mer fermée). Upon these grounds the Russian Government had judged itself authorized to exercise the right of sovereignty therein, and, especially, that of interdicting the entrance of foreigners.

5. Mr. Adams replied forthwith, "that from the period of the existence of the United States as an independent nation, their vessels had freely navigated these seas, the right being a part of that independence; and with regard to the suggestion that they belonged to Russia, that power might, for the reason alleged, have justified the exercise of sovereignty over the whole Pacific Ocean as a close sea, since it owned territory on both its American and Asiatic shores, which on the said sea, in latitude 51 north, is not less than 4,000 miles wide." Mr. Adams concluded as follows; "The President is persuaded that the citizens of this Union will remain unmolested in the prosecution of their lawful commerce, and that no effect will be given to an interdiction manifestly incompatible with their rights."

In 1821 and 1822 or prior to the protest of the United States the British Government had, with equal decision, repudiated the extraordinary pretensions of Russia, and shortly afterwards by conventions with that country an end was put to them.

We now come to the strange phase of this question of jurisdiction over the open sea as exhibited by the United States in total disregard of their own vigorously expressed protests against the exercise of a similar authority by Russia, before the transfer of Alaska to the former country.

It would seem that the United States have, for valuable considerations, leased the fisheries on the coast of Alaska to a company, whose rights they are therefore bound to protect, and it also seems that the company claim all the privileges which Russia vainly tried to establish in 1822.

6. On the ground of these pretended privileges the United States' steamer "Corwin," sometime during the summer of 1886, seized three British Columbian sealing schooners, viz.:—the Onward, the Carolina, and the Thornton, with their crews, outfits, and a considerable quantity of seal skins, and towed them to Ounalaska. These several vessels according to the sworn testimony of the officers of the "Corwin" themselves, were captured long distances from the land (one 70, one 75, and one 115 miles) and towed away, as just stated, to the island of Ounalaska, where legal proceedings were instituted by the Attorney General for the United States, and as there was no question as to the fact of the said vessels having taking the seals in the seas claimed by the Alaska company as their preserves, they were adjudicated as forfeit, with their cargoes and all other belongings.

7. The Imperial Government having been informed of these proceedings directed Sir L. West, the British Minister at Washington, to remonstrate with the view of obtaining a reversal of the judgments, and such reparation as would indemnify the owners of the captured vessels. On the 3rd February, 1887, Mr. Bayard, the American Secretary of State, replied that "without conclusion, at this time of day, of any questions which may be found to be involved in these cases of seizure, orders have been issued by the President's direction for the discontinuance of all pending proceedings, the discharge of the vessels referred to, and the release of all persons under arrest in connection therewith."

8. As will be seen later on, the orders of the President were not acted upon, and on the 10th of August, 1887, the Marquis of Salisbury wrote again to Sir. L. West, stating that information had been received by the Imperial Government of the seizure of three more British Columbian sealing vessels at great distances from land, and that several others were seen in course of being towed into Sitka. He also desired the Ambassador to state to Mr. Bayard that Her Majesty's Government had assumed, in view of the assurance above referred to (Mr. Bayard's note of 3rd February) "that, pending a conclusion of the discussion between the two Governments on the general question involved, no further similar seizures of British vessels would be made by order of the United States Government." The Marquis of Salisbury further desired that copies of the records in the proceedings against the sealers in the court at Sitka should be furnished to him—which was done—and instructed him besides, to call the attention of Mr. Bayard to the fact that notwithstanding his promise to have the first vessels, which had been seized, discharged and further proceedings discontinued, several other similar vessels had been captured a long distance from Sitka and taken thither.

9. To this representation Mr. Bayard answered that "he had received no information of the seizure of these other vessels, and that he would immediately cause proper inquiries about the matter to be made. But in regard of the assumption of the Imperial Government, based upon his note, engaging to discontinue the proceedings in respect of the vessels previously seized, and undertaking to have them discharged, etc., etc., that no future seizures would be made, he did not find on reference to said note that it contained any grounds for such an understanding." His letter referred simply to the first cases of seizure, but had no relation to other cases!

10. Resuming the narrative, it now appears that on the 26th January, 1887, the American Secretary of State (Mr. Bayard) in consequence of the representations made to his Government by the British Minister at Washington, addressed a telegram to Judge Dawson at Sitka (who had ordered the confiscation of the three sealers already named,) directing him, as before stated, to discontinue the legal proceedings, to discharge the vessels, and to release the crews: that the judge received the message and immediately acted upon it, so far at least as to give the necessary instructions, but that, subsequently on the assumption that the telegram was a forgery, had rescinded the order, and allowed matters to remain as they were before. That the message received by the judge was authentic is proved by the statement of Mr. Bayard himself in his note of the 3rd February, eight days after its dispatch, but there is no evidence that this message was confirmed by a subsequently written order. It would probably have required two or three weeks for such an order to reach Sitka by mail and possibly four, but up to the middle of August, or more than six months later, nothing of this kind apparently had been done, for the vessels remained under seizure.

11. On the 10th of September the Marquis of Salisbury again brings the matter to the notice of Sir Lionel West (the British Ambassador at Washington) and recapitulates the whole case, ending as follows: "Her Majesty's Government feel sure that in view of the considerations which I have set forth in this despatch, which you will communicate to Mr. Bayard, the Government of the United States will admit that the seizure and condemnation of these British vessels, and the imprisonment of their masters and crews, was not warranted by the circumstances, and that they will be ready to afford reasonable compensation to those who have suffered in consequence, and issue immediate instructions to their naval officers which will prevent a recurrence of those regrettable incidents."

12. On the 15th of September the Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Marine at Ottawa, made a report on the facts to the Privy Council, in which he also recapitulates the most essential particulars, and in very nervous language comments upon the want of attention on the part of the American Government to the representations which had been made to them. The report closes as under: "It is respectfully submitted that this condition of affairs is in the highest degree detrimental to the interests of Canada and should not be permitted to continue. For nearly two years Canadian vessels have been exposed to arbitrary seizure and confiscation in the pursuit of a lawful occupation upon the high seas, and Canadian citizens subjected to imprisonment and serious financial loss; while an important and remunerative Canadian industry has been threatened with absolute ruin. This course of action has been pursued by the United States officers in opposition to the contention in the past of their government in regard to the waters in which these seizures have taken place; in violation of the plainest dictates of international law, and in the face of repeated and vigorous protests of both the Canadian and British Governments."

13. "The Minister advises that Her Majesty's Government be again asked to give its serious and immediate attention to the repeated remonstrances of the Canadian Government against the unwarrantable action of the United States in respect of Canadian vessels in Behring Sea, with the view to obtain a speedy recognition of its just rights and full reparation for the losses sustained by its citizens."

14. After a good deal more of correspondence in regard of the continued detention of the three sealers, which Mr. Secretary Bayard had on the 26th January ordered the officials at Sitka to release—which order they had singularly enough chosen to consider a forgery, but the authenticity of which they could have ascertained by telegraph in a very short time—on 13th October (nearly 10 months afterwards) he states to Sir L. West that "owing to some misconception and mistake on the part of the official to whom it had been addressed, the order had not been acted upon." He then adds that "a new order has gone forward for their release." The order did apparently find its way to the Sitka officials, for on the 5th December the United States Marshal at that place, informed the owners of the schooners seized, "that orders for their release had been sent to their custodiers at Ounalaska."

15. But the officials in question had their own views on this subject also, for as the cargoes, arms and ammunition were not mentioned in Mr. Bayard's order as requiring to be restored, the vessels only were offered back, and the arms and ammunition were sold for the benefit of the United States, at least "the court concluded that they must be sold and gave directions accordingly."

16. The owners of the vessels, however, were not quite so ready to repossess themselves of them as the Marshal had seemed to imagine they would, and His Excellency the Governor General of Canada in a letter to Sir Henry Holland, under date of 19th January, 1888, specifies the reason for this disinclination, thus: "The information received by my Minister (of Marine) is to the effect that the condition of these three vessels, owing to the length of time during which they have been on the shore, is now such as to render it questionable whether they could, under present circumstances, be repaired and removed with advantage. The difficulty of doing this would be increased from the fact that the vessels have been released at a season of the year in which, owing to the great distance between Victoria and Ounalaska, it would be scarcely possible for the owners to fit out steamers for the purpose of going up to Ounalaska to repair their vessels and bring them home." His Excellency closes his despatch as follows: "I have already dwelt at sufficient length upon the extent of the hardships involved to the crews and the owners of these vessels by the action of the United States Government, and I will only, upon the present occasion, remind you that another fishing season is approaching, and that as far as my Government is aware, no declaration has been made by the United States in regard to the policy which it intends to adopt during the course of the year which has just commenced."

17. (It may not be amiss just here to state that the total number of seal skins brought to Victoria, B C., in 1887 (plus those seized and taken to Ounalaska of course) was 22,085, representing a value of $140,302.50 there, and yielding to the merchants on resale in other markets, probably not less than a quarter of a million of dollars. These figures show the importance of the business to a comparatively small place like Victoria).

18. In the course of the correspondence between the Imperial Government and that of the United States upon this subject, the latter was courteously invited to formulate its views upon the main question, viz., the right of other parties to navigate and fish in the Alaska waters, and also to state the policy it intended to pursue in relation to such navigation, &c., in future, but Mr. Bayard merely acknowledged the receipt of the communication without making a reply to the inquiries.

19. The British Ambassador also represented that a number of British Columbia schooners were waiting to know whether they could sail on their projected voyages with the certainty of not being molested, but this also failed to elicit a specific answer. It is, however, satisfactory to learn that, so far as is to the present known, no seizures of sailing vessels have been made this season and there is therefore reason to hope that the silence may be interpreted into an assent to the correctness of the positions taken by the Imperial Government and the Canadian authorities. It is, however, to be regretted that the American Government has not consented to the suggestions made for a regulation of the business carried on in those seas, since it is evident that it is in the interest of all parties concerned that seal catching should be governed by rules which would protect the animals from slaughter at improper seasons. Let us also hope that there may soon be a conference of the several nations interested in this industry, by which regulations may be enacted and agreed upon which will secure this impotant benefit.

The argument which follows is added in order to inform the candidates more fully on the true bearings of the case, but they are not required to embrace it in the "Précis."

Subjoined is a resumé of the brief by Mr. Drake in support of the demurrer filed in the court of Alaska on behalf of the masters and owners of four British Columbia sealing schooners seized by a United States cutter for an alleged infraction of an Act of the United States Congress, to prevent the extinction of fur-bearing animals in Alaska:

The Act is directed against killing seals in the waters adjacent to the Islands of St. Paul and St. George, and does not refer to any other waters in Behring Sea; but on referring to section 1,956 of the Revised Statutes, the language used is somewhat different, prohibiting the killing of fur-bearing animals within the limits of Alaska Territory or the waters thereof. The first question then to be decided is what is meant by the waters thereof. If the defendants are bound by the treaty between the United States and Russia ceding Alaska to the United States, then it appears that Russia in 1822 claimed absolute territorial sovereignty over the Behring Sea, and purported to convey practically one-half of that sea to the United States. But are the defendants, as men belonging to a country on friendly terms with the United States, bound by this assertion of Russia? And can the United States claim that the treaty conveys to them any greater right than Russia herself possessed in these waters? In other words, the mere assertion of a right contrary to the comity of nations can confer on the grantees no rights in excess of those recognised by the laws of nations. In enquiring what that right was and how far it was submitted to by the other powers interested, namely, Great Britain and the United States, we find the United States Minister at St. Petersburg in 1822, combatting the pretensions of Russia to a jurisdiction over the waters of Behring Sea for a distance of one hundred miles from the coast (for this was the extent of Russia's claim in 1822) in the following expressive language: "The existence of territorial rights to the distance of 100 miles from the coast and the prohibition of approaching to the same distance from these coasts and from those of all intervening islands are innovations on the law of nations and measures unexampled." We thus find that the assumption of a limited sovereignty over the waters of Alaska was challenged by the United States, and in consequence was not persisted in, and on the 17th April, 1824, a convention was concluded between the United States and Russia, whereby it was agreed, "that in any part of the great ocean, commonly called the Pacific Ocean, or South Sea, the respective citizens, subjects of the high contracting powers, should be neither disturbed nor restrained neither in navigation nor in fishing, or in the power of resorting to the coasts or points which might not then already have been occupied for the purpose of trading with the natives, saving always the restrictions and conditions contained in certain articles attached to the treaty refering to illicit trade with the Indians."

THE RUSSO-BRITISH TREATY.

The Government of Great Britain, on the 28th February, 1825, also entered into a treaty with Russia in consequence of the same extravagant pretensions of Russia, which treaty contains the following provisions:—"It is agreed that the respective subjects of the high contracting parties shall not be troubled or molested in any part of the ocean commonly called the Pacific Ocean, either in navigating the same or fishing therein, or in landing at such parts of the coast as shall not have been already occupied in order to trade with the natives under the conditions and restrictions specified in the then following articles." These restrictions are not dissimilar from those attached to the treaty with the United States. In order to ascertain what were the pretensions of Russia which led to these treaties it is necessary to refer to the edict of the Autocrat of all the Russias. By section 1 it is enacted:—"That the pursuits of commerce, whaling and fishing, and all other industries on all islands, ports and gulfs, including the whole of the north-west coast of America, beginning from Behring Straits to 51° of north latitude; also from the Aleutian Islands to the eastern coast of Siberia, as well as along the Kurile Islands from Behring Straits to the south cape of the Island of Bruck, namely, 45° 50' northern latitude, is exclusively granted to Russian subjects. Section 2. It is therefore prohibited to all foreign vessels not only to land on the coasts and islands belonging to Russia, but also to approach them within less than 100 Italian miles. The transgressor's vessel is subject to confiscation along with the whole cargo."

RUSSIA'S CLAIM.

Thus it appears that Russia claimed 100 miles from the coasts of all the islands as well as the mainland of Behring Sea, and south to 45° 50'. It was this claim that led to the indignant remonstrance of the United States and Great Britain, and to the treaties before referred to, and shows that Behring Sea was included in the term "Pacific Ocean." The pretensions of Russia were never revived, and the citizens of Great Britain as well as the United States had free access at all times to these waters in navigating and fishing without any restriction. And Russia's claim was never revived until she purported to cede to the United States a portion of Behring Sea. Russia could not sell what she did not own, and the United States could not claim that which it was not in the power of Russia to sell. The treaty with England has never been abrogated, and was in force when the cession to the United States took place, and there was no need to protest against the extravagant pretensions of Russia in purporting to dispose of the high seas, as until last year no attempt has been made to enforce such a claim. The United States have always been the strongest upholders of the law of nations, and on this head Kent's Commentaries, page 28: "The open sea is not capable of being possessed as private property; the free use of the ocean for navigation and fishing is common to all mankind, and the public jurists generally and explicitly deny that the main ocean can ever be appropriated." He also refers to the claim of Russia, and in another place he states that "the United States have recognized the limitation of a marine league for general territorial jurisdiction by authorizing the district courts to take cognizance of all captures made within a marine league of the American shore." See Act of Congress, June 5, 1794. And in Wharton's International Law Digest, page 32, the author says: "The limit of one sea league from shore is provisionally adopted as that of the territorial sea of the United States," and "our jurisdiction has been fixed to extend three geographical miles from our shore, with the exception of any waters or bays which are so land-locked as to be unquestionably within the jurisdiction of the United States, be their extent what they may." Behring Sea is not a gulf or bay, and is not land-locked by the lands of the United States. Wiarton again states that "a vessel on the high seas beyond the distance of a marine league from the shore is regarded as part of the territory of the nation to which she belongs." And Mr. Seward in a letter to Mr. Tassara, December 16, 1862, tersely states the principle as follows:—"There are two principles bearing on the subject which are universally admitted, (1) that the sea is open to all nations, and (2) that there is a portion of the sea adjacent to every nation over which the sovereignty of that nation extends to the exclusion of every other political authority."

A third principle bearing on the subject is that the exclusive sovereignty of a nation abridging the universal liberty of the seas extends no further than the power of the nation to maintain it by force stationed on the coast extends. "Terræ dominium finiture, abi finiture armarum vis" (the sovereignty of the coast ends where the power to control it by force of arms terminates). It thus appears that by the comity of nations, sanctioned and approved by American jurists, that the high seas are open to all, that the territorial authority only extends to a marine league or, at all events, not further than a force on shore can protect the coasts.

It also appears that the United States, in claiming sovereignty over the Behring Sea, is claiming something beyond the well-recognized law of nations, and bases her claim upon the pretensions of Russia which were successfully repudiated by both Great Britain and the United States. A treaty is valid and binding between the parties to it, but it cannot affect others who are not parties to it. It is an agreement between nations and would be construed in law like an agreement between individuals. Great Britain was no party to it and therefore is not bound by its terms.

It is therefore contended that the proceedings taken against the present defendants are ultra vires and without jurisdiction. But, in order to press the matter further, it may be necessary to discuss the Act itself under which the alleged jurisdiction is assumed. The Act must be construed by what appears within its four corners and not by any extrinsic document. It is an Act defining a criminal offence, and an Act which abridges the privileges and immunities of citizens must be most strictly construed; and nothing but the clearest expression can or ought to be construed against the interest of the public in applying this principle to the present case. The terms used in the Act itself are "the waters adjacent to the Islands of St. George and St. Paul." "Adjacent," in Wharton, page 846, is held to be adjacent to the coast and within the territorial jurisdiction of the country. This language then does not apply to these defendants who are fifty miles from the nearest coast. In section 1,956 the language is "the waters of Alaska." This must also be construed by the universal law as applying to the territorial limit only. And in a letter from Mr. Evarts to Mr. Foster in April, 1879, referring to a case in which certain American merchant vessels were seized by the Mexican authorities for an alleged breach of the revenue laws, although distant more than three miles from shore, it was held to be an international offence and was not cured by a decree in favor of the assailants by a Mexican court. So here it is submitted that a decree of your Honor's court will not give any validity to the seizure here made, and the defendants in filing their demurrer and submitting this argument do not thereby waive their rights or submit to the jurisdiction of the court.

NOTE.—Two Books of Account only are to be used; the statement of transactions which follows serving sufficiently well for a Day Book or Blotter. ASSUMED FACTS.

Robert Fulton inherits £5,000 stg. in the English consols, which he sells through a broker at £91 5 in the £100. The broker charges and deducts a commission of half of one per cent. on the £5,000, and remits Fulton the balance by bill of exchange on the Bank of Montreal here. The Bank allows him $4.87 in the £, and enters the proceeds to his credit.

R. Fulton now purchases from the same Bank a draft on New York for $20,000, for which he pays ½ per cent. premium, giving his cheque therefor.

He proceeds to New York to attend Trade Sales of Books and Pictures, and buys as follows:

Invoice	A. Books	$3,384
"	B. "	2,106
"	C. "	2,191
"	D. Pictures	1,750
"	E. "	406
"	F. "	995

Paying cash, he obtains a discount of 5 per cent. on the Books and 7½ per cent. on the Pictures.

The packing, freight and duty on his purchases come to 15 per cent. taken together, over the net costs in New York, which he pays for in cash.

He takes out an Auctioneer's License, for which he pays $200, and hires a store for a month at $100, for which he pays in advance.

He sells the goods and realizes as follows:

From invoice	A	$5,066 00
"	B	2,426 15
"	C	4,193 90

On the pictures he makes 85 per cent. profit over the gross New York prices.

His expenses for travelling, advertising, help, light, &c., amount to $250, which he pays for in cash.

The proceeds of the sales, as well as the cash which remained in his hands after paying for the goods and all the expenses connected with the operations, he places to his credit in the bank.

STENOGRAPHY.

On Friday afternoon, the 16th November, 1888, if time permits, if not, then on Saturday morning—the Examiners to arrange it.

Value.

100

NOTE.—The Examiner will read the conditions and, also, the matter to be written, before proceeding to the trial, so that the candidates may have a clear apprehension of what they have to do. When all are ready he will read the matter over distinctly in exactly six minutes, which will be at the rate of 65 words a minute. If any fail to keep up with the reading, they will necessarily drop out.

CONDITIONS.

Half an hour will be allowed for the extension of the notes, and the candidates who produce perfect transcripts will be awarded 100 marks. For every word omitted and for any wrong word introduced 5 marks will be deducted from the 100, and no account will be taken of exercises short-written to the extent of 12 words.

THE ST. CLAIR FLATS CANAL.

From the official documents in the possession of the Dominion Government, it is possible to trace the exact progress of the construction of the St. Clair Flats Canal. The first time the attention of the Canadian Government was drawn to the improvement of navigation on the flats of Lake St. Clair seems to have been in 1855. In that year, a deputation from the Boards of Trade of Buffalo and Chicago, waited upon the Canadian Government to ask assistance to deepen the channel on the flats. Such an application would seem to argue that Canada had a recognised claim to, and interest in the question. The result was that the Canadian Government voted $20,000 to assist in the work. In the following year the contract for the work was let, the United States Government giving a grant also, and the use of government plant, the assistance being valued at $60,000. The work on the channel and canal then proceeded.

A CANADIAN CLAIM ADMITTED.

The contractor for the work, which was under the direction of the United States Government, was one John Brown, a Canadian resident at Thorold, county of Welland. The Essex Review says that during the progress of the work he found it necessary to bring his timbers and other materials from Canada. The United States Government insisted upon the payment by him of the duty on the material thus, as alleged, imported into the United States. Mr. Brown paid under protest on each shipment, the amount aggregating $60,000. On the completion of the work, Mr. Brown demanded a remission of the duty, alleging that the materials used were not liable to duty, as the work had been done entirely in Canadian waters. The Government dispatched surveyors to the canal, and after several weeks of labor, they decided that Mr. Brown was right, and the money was accordingly refunded.

In 1858 the then Commissioner of Public Works for Canada stated his belief that part of the St. Clair Canal was certainly in Canadian territory, but no point was raised until two Canadian vessels were seized in the canal by the U. S. authorities for some alleged irregularity. Some fuss occurred in connection with this, and the vessels were released. The canal question then dropped.

TYPE WRITING.

Saturday, 17th Nov., 1888, Time to be arranged by Examiner.

Value 100 Marks.

NOTE.—Eight minutes will be given for the work and at the expiration of the time the examiner will stop it. If the whole of the text is reproduced correctly and without blemishes, 100 marks will be awarded. For every error 5 marks will be deducted, and if the exercise be not completed, but so far as it has progressed is well done, one mark for every word short will be taken off, and 50 marks will pass the candidates.

ROBBERS OF TIME.

Idle men and women, who themselves have plenty of leisure, too often forget that the worker's time represents money. Many of them are highly respectable and well-meaning persons; time being of little value to themselves, they have no knowledge of the value of hours and minutes to others, and they call and waste time, every moment of which is golden to the people who suffer the theft. Sensible men and women who know the value of time to the busy workers are welcome everywhere. Whether they come on business or in kindly offices of friendship, they never steal the time they can't return. If they have business, it is promptly transacted, and they are as welcome in their coming as in their going. If they call to exchange the greetings which keep green the noble attributes of friendships, they throw their bright ray of sunshine over the worker and then depart regretted. These are not the thieves of the worker's time. On the contrary, they give much and take little; but they are only a small portion of those who claim the time of busy people. There is hardly a banker, merchant, manufacturer, professional man, editor, or any others of the many workers of the world, who are not daily victimized, more or less, by the thieves of valuable time. They have existed since the world was, and it is probable that they will contine until time shall be no more.

(c.) The permanent officers and servants of the Senate and House of Commons, and the permanent officers and servants employed in the Library of Parliament, who, for the purposes of this Act, shall be deemed to be in the Civil Service, saving all rights and privileges of either House in respect to the appointment or removal of its officers and servants; Officers and servants of Senate and Commons.

3. The Governor in Council may grant to any person who has served in an established capacity in the Civil Service for ten years or upwards, and who has attained the Conditions of allowance.

age of sixty years, or is in capacitated by bodily infirmity from properly performing his duties, a superannuation allowance calculated on his average yearly salary during the then last three years, and not exceeding the following rates, that is to say :—

Rates of allowance.

(a.) If he has served for ten years, but less than eleven years, an annual allowance of ten fiftieths of such average salary, and if for eleven years and under twelve years, an annual allowance of eleven fiftieths thereof, and in like manner a further addition of one fiftieth of such average salary for each additional year of service up to thirty-five years, when an annual allowance of thirty-five fiftieths may be granted; but no addition shall be made for any service beyond thirty-five years;

Maximum rate for 35 years.

Breaks in service not to be counted.

(b.) If the service has not been continuous, the period or periods during which such service has been interrupted shall not be counted, and the Order in Council made in any such case shall be laid before Parliament at its then current or next ensuing session. 46 V., c. 8, s. 2.

Governor in Council may add to service of persons appointed on account of special qualifications.

4. The Governor in Council may, in the case of any person who entered the Civil Service after the age of thirty years, as being possessed of some peculiar professional or other qualifications or attainments required for the office to which he was appointed, and not ordinarily to be acquired in the public service, add to the actual number of years' service of such person, such further number of years not exceeding ten, as is considered equitable, for reasons stated in the Order in Council made in the case; and such additional number of years shall be taken as part of the term of service on which the superannuation allowance of such person shall be computed; and the Order in Council in any such case shall be laid before Parliament at its then current or next ensuing session. 46 V., c. 8, s. 3.

Preliminary inquiry by Treasury Board.

5. The superannuation of every civil servant shall be preceded by an inquiry by the Treasury Board—

(a.) Whether the person it is proposed to superannuate is eligible within the meaning of this Act; and—

(b.) Whether his superannuation will result in benefit to the service, and is therefore in the public interest; or—

(c.) Whether it has become necessary in consequence of his mental or physical infirmity:

Report of Board.

2. No civil servant shall be superannuated unless the Treasury Board reports that he is eligible within the meaning of this Act and that such superannuation will be in the public interest. 46 V., c. 8, s. 4.

Deductions from salaries.

6. A deduction towards making good the superannuation allowances hereinbefore mentioned, shall be made from the salary of every person in the Civil Service to whom this Act applies, at the rate of two per centum per annum on such salary, if it is six hundred dollars or upwards, and of one and a-quarter per centum per annum thereon, if it is less than six hundred dollars, and the sum so deducted shall form part of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Canada; but such deduction shall be made only during the first thirty-five years of service. 46 V., c. 8, s. 5.

Proviso.

7. The full superannuation allowance shall only be granted to persons who have been subject to the said deduction during ten years or upwards,—the superannuation allowance of any person who has not paid it, or has paid it for a less period, being subject to a diminution of one per centum for every year less than ten during which he has not paid it; except that the superannuation allowance of any person hereafter retiring, shall not be subject to any such diminution by reason of his not having paid the abatement hereinbefore mentioned, during any year or years after his first thirty-five years of service. 46 V., c. 8, s. 6.

Ten years' contribution requisite for full allowance.

Diminution for less period of contribution.

Exception.

8. Retirement shall be compulsory on every person to whom the superannuation allowance hereinbefore mentioned is offered, and such offer shall not be considered as implying any censure upon the person to whom it is made; nor shall any person be considered as having any absolute right to such allowance, but it shall be granted only in consideration of good and faithful service during the time upon which it is calculated:

Compulsory retirement.

Allowance conditional on good service.

2. Nothing herein contained shall be understood as impairing or affecting the right of the Governor in Council to dismiss or remove any person from the Civil Service. 46 V., c. 8, s. 7.

Right of dismissal not impaired.

9. If the Head of a department reports with respect to any person employed in his department, and about to be superannuated, from any cause other than that of ill-health or age, that the service of such person has not been satisfactory, the Governor in Council may, as to him seems fit, grant such person a superannuation allowance less than that to which he would have otherwise been entitled. 46 V., c. 8, s. 8.

Diminution when Head of Department reports unsatisfactory service.

10. If any person to whom this Act applies, is constrained, from any infirmity of mind or body, to quit the Civil Service before the period at which a superannuation allowance might be granted him, the Governor in Council may allow him a gratuity not exceeding one month's pay for each year of his service; and if any such person is so constrained to quit the service before such period, by reason of severe bodily injury, received without his own fault, in the discharge of his public duty, the Governor in Council may allow him a gratuity not exceeding three month's pay for every two years' service, or a superannuation allowance not exceeding Gratuity when yearly allowance not earned.

Gratuity in case of bodily injury on duty.

11. If any person to whom this Act applies is removed from office in consequence of the abolition of his office for the purpose of improving the organization of the department to which he belongs, or is removed, or retired from office to promote efficiency or economy in the Civil Service, the Governor in Council may grant him such gratuity or superannuation allowance as will fairly compensate him for his loss of office, not exceeding such as he would have been entitled to if he had retired in consequence of permanent infirmity of body or mind, after adding ten years to his actual term of service. 46 V., c. 8, s. 10.

Pensioners under sixty liable to serve if required, under penalty of loss of allowance.

12. Every person who receives a superannuation allowance, and is under the age of sixty years, and is not disabled by bodily or mental infirmity, may be called upon to fill, in any part of Canada, any public office or situation for which his previous services render him eligible, and which is not lower in rank or emolument than that from which he retired; and, if he refuses or neglects so to do, he shall forfeit his said allowance. 46 V., c. 8, s. 11.

Service before Confederation to be counted.

13. Service in an established capacity in any of the departments of the Executive Government or offices of the Legislature of any of the Provinces now included in the Dominion of Canada, before such Province became a portion thereof, by any person who has thereafter entered the Civil Service, shall be reckoned in computing his period of service for the purposes of this Act. 46 V., c. 8, s. 12.

Discretionary power of Governor in Council.

14. In any case of doubt the Governor in Council may, by general or special regulations, determine to what persons the provisions of this Act do or do not apply, and the conditions on which, and the manner in which, they shall apply in any case or class of cases. 46 V., c. 8, s. 13.

DEPARTMENT

PUBLIC PRINTING AND STATIONERY

FOR THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

ANNUAL REPORT

FOR YEAR ENDING 30th JUNE, 1888.

OTTAWA:
PRINTED FOR THE QUEEN'S PRINTER AND CONTROLLER OF STATIONERY.

A. SENECAL, Superintendent of Printing.

1889.

To His Excellency the Right Honorable Lord STANLEY of PRESTON, Governor General of Canada, &c., &c., &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,—

The undersigned has the honor to present to Your Excellency the Annual Report of the Department of Public Printing and Stationery for the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1888, with a partial Report for services during the six months ending 31st December, 1888.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. BOWELL,
for Secretary of State.

OTTAWA, 25th February, 1889.

REPORT.

To the Honorable J. A. CHAPLEAU,
Secretary of State,
&c., &c., &c.

SIR,—I have the honor to submit herewith reports from the several branches of this Department, respecting the services performed during the year ending 30th June last, and a partial report of their operations since that time.

I have ventured to delay its completion and submission until the final accounts for printing the voters lists had been made up, and the greater part of the work upon the annual blue books had been completed.

I have pleasure in calling attention to the highly satisfactory report from the Superintendent of Printing in respect of both these matters. The work upon the voters lists has been executed for a somewhat less sum than Mr. Senécal's estimate of last year. I think he also shows clearly that the annual reports of the Departments have been turned out more promptly than in previous years, and better workmanship has been secured, by a very small addition to the appliances heretofore in use in the office, and the use of a somewhat better paper, without enhanced cost. Had the press room in the new building been ready, still greater despatch would have been secured.

In my report of last year, I ventured to express a hope that, by the beginning of this financial year we might be able to begin the work of the Department in the new building which was being erected for its use. But as the spring advanced it became manifest that this hope would be disappointed, and that we could not rely on the full use of the building before May or June, of the present year. Desirous of attempting to improve the service if possible even with imperfect appliances, you submitted a report to Council recommending the lease of the premises and plant of the printing contractors till the plant procured for the Government could be properly placed and ready for successful and economical operation. This course was further rendered advisable by the fact that the contract for Departmental work with Messrs. MacLean, Roger & Co., would expire on the 31st October, 1888, and for Parliamentary on the 31st December last, and they were unwilling to continue them for a less period than twelve months. If this had been done the plant of the new premises would have remained idle, from June till November, 1889, and in part until the 1st January, 1890. No other printer here could have undertaken the work for a single year, or performed it if undertaken.

The contract was therefore approved by His Excellency in Council and entered into for one year from the 1st July last, the Superintendent taking possession of the premises on that date. The sum to be paid for rental of the premises and plant for the year was fixed at $6,000. A sum of $10,000 was also granted to the firm for loss of profit on the unexpired remainders of their two contracts, being nearly 20 per cent. less than shown (for a similar period in the previous year) by their books, submitted for our inspection.

Mr. Senécal calls attention to some of the causes for delays in printing which are assuredly not attributable to those in charge of the printing office. Hitherto the printers and binders have been made scapegoats for all delays, however caused, in getting out work. The Superintendent points out that a portion of the blame should be fastened on other backs.

In June last, after many months of severe illness, Mr. Jas. Young, late Superintendent of Stationery died. The Government Stationery Office was organized by him in 1869, and for nineteen years he gave to its superintendence and management, all the thoughtful care, zealous and skilled effort and untiring industry of which he was capable. The Government have had few more efficient or more faithful servants.

He has been succeeded by Mr. H. J. Bronskill, who has brought great energy and aptitude to the work, with a knowledge of the markets for advantageous purchase, and an anxious desire to promote economy in the work entrusted to him. But efforts to introduce better system are baffled in a greater or less degree by the inadequate premises, in which he must store and sort, and out of which he must deliver supplies. In fact attempts to complete the proper organization of the Department and its division of its work among the several branches are for the same reason necessarily suspended for the time.

A circular was sent out early in the financial year to the several Departments asking them to limit their issue of reports to those necessary for the supply of the two Houses of Parliament, their own officers and clerks and exchanges with other Departments; and in place of surplus copies ordered in past years and distributed gratuitously a limited number have been secured as stock for sale by this Department. The demand for purchase is gradually, though slowly increasing. To induce the Departments to limit their issues to absolute needs, and to teach the public to purchase what they have been so long accustomed to procure for nothing will require patient perseverance for a considerable period.

The whole respectfully submitted,

B. CHAMBERLIN,

Queen's Printer and Controller of Stationery.

OTTAWA, February, 1889.

APPENDIX "B."

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND STATIONERY,
STATIONERY OFFICE BRANCH, OTTAWA, 12th January, 1889.

To the Honorable
J. A. CHAPLEAU,
Secretary of State of Canada, &c., &c.

SIR,—I have the honor to submit for your information a general statement of the accounts of the Stationery Office for the year ending the 30th June, 1888, as follows, viz.:—

To value of good brought forward and verified 1st July, 1887	$ 28,136 66
To value of goods received 1st July, 1887, to 30th June, 1888	183,738 61
Balance, profit	3,187 44
		$215,055 71
By goods issued to Departments, Inside Service	$ 28,842 18
By goods issued to Departments, Outside Service	73,851 00
By Queen's Printer's work account	65,264 38
By Books of Reference issued to Departments, Inside Service	8,838 49
By Books of Reference issued to Departments, Outside Service	10,036 51
By Queen's Printer's transfer 1886-87.	104 28
Total issue	$186,936 84
By value of stock on hand, 30th June, 1888 (verified.)	28,118 87
		$215,055 71

The expenditure, as compared with that of last year, shows an increase of $55,268.45 and the issue of goods an increase of $54,622.96, which is accounted for thus:—

Departments, Inside Service, goods, increase	$ 2,486 27
Departments, Outside Service, goods, increase	38,442 33
Departments, Inside Service, books, increase	4,733 97
Departments Outside Service, books increase	8,119 91
Queen's Printer's work account	736 20
do transfer, 1886-87	104 28
		$54,622 96

This increase is to a considerable extent due to the Parliamentary printing papers being now entirely transferred to this office, and to the Senate and House of Commons sessional and other supplies being this year for the first time likewise transferred in accordance with legislation to that effect. These services account for the undermentioned amounts of increase:—

Senate	$ 9,615 25
House of Commons	9,516 34
Parliamentary printing papers	13,106 54
		$32,238 13

After further deducting the small increase of $736.20 in the Queen's Printer's work Account there yet remains, on ordinary supplies for both inside and outside services, a net increase of $8,794.75 due to the increased demands made upon the office.

Referring to books, the increase of $4,733.97 for inside service is largely explained by an item of $3,001.80 expended in pamphlets relating to the North-West, and against the increase of $8,119.91 for the outside service should be placed the incidental payments of $1,261.98 and $3,037.00, making together $4,298.98, for immigration publications, there being no corresponding charge of this nature in the accounts of the previous year, and also $1,663.86 increase for Supreme Court Library books. These figures deducted leave a net increase on books of $2,157.07 on account of outside service, and for inside service of $1,732.17.

During the year values have remained very much as previously. In some few instances the tendency has been upwards, but this has been more than counterbalanced by purchases made at even lower prices for other goods. It may safely be recorded that in no previous years has the office purchased more advantageously, or received better value for the expenditure incurred.

In further analysing the accounts perhaps I may be permitted to point out a noticeable feature in the expenditure, namely, that the purchase of Canadian manufactured articles and other goods in the home market has increased from $77,485.71 during last year to $126,280.73 in this year, an increase of something over 38 per cent. This material augmentation indicates that the requirements of the service are being much more fully met by Canadian manufacturers and business houses, and in accordance with the expressed desire of the Government conveyed through your instructions, care will be taken to further develop the connexion when such can be done.

Details of all the accounts will be found in the statements hereunto attached, viz.:—

(a.) A general statement of expenditure and issue of goods.

(b.) A comparative statement of the issue of goods for the two fiscal years 1886-87 and 1887-88.

(c.) A statement of expenditure and issues by months for the year 1887-88 further brought down to 31st December, 1888.

Consequent upon the considerably increased disbursements there has naturally been a corresponding increase in the office work. Though performed under the disadvantage and inconvenience of cramped accommodation, especially in respect of storage, the various duties have been discharged with (generally speaking) a diligence, accuracy and cheerfulness worthy of commendation, and that without any additional staff. These results are due, also, to the introduction of improvements in manipulating details and to the larger experience gained in working under the new Act. I am striving earnestly, with every hope of success, to introduce still better methods which the new and much more commodious premises will greatly facilitate.

Since my appointment I have been able to open several new and profitable sources of supply, have effected larger lines of discount, improved the quality of goods whenever possible without increasing their cost. The stock has been well kept up and consequently arrearages in supply have been fewer and of shorter duration, the filling of demands has been expedited so that each day's business is completed daily so far as possible, and the general working of the office rendered more efficient.

The demands during the year reached to 11,251, an increase of 954; invoices and accounts have been entered to the number of 1,165 exceeding those of last year by 248; 958 letters (apart from invoices) were received and registered, and 3,712 letters were mailed, an increase of 479 In addition 3,733 packages of goods were dispatched by mail, as well as 168 cases of freight for the outside service.

Respectfully submitting the above,

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

H. J. BRONSKILL,

Supt. of Stationery.

APPENDIX C.

OTTAWA, January, 1889.

To the Honorable
J. A. CHAPLEAU,
Secretary of State,
&c., &c., &c.

SIR,—I have the honor to transmit herewith a report upon the steps taken towards the organization of the Government Printing Establishment, and the printing work executed under my superintendence.

VOTERS' LISTS.

Acting upon your report to Council of 7th December, 1887 (subsequently approved), steps were taken to secure the necessary building and plant to put these lists in print here, preparatory to their future revision. These preparations were so far completed that on the 10th March, 1888, work was begun and continued—from twenty-five to fifty-five compositors being employed thereon—till the 31st ult., a period of ten months. The work was then fully completed.

The voters' lists for the seven Provinces contain 971,899 names, making 6,418 pages of double demy, 4to. They are divided among 6,064 polling districts. Fifty copies of each list have been printed and delivered to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery.

The subjoined statement shows that the cost has been about $3.50 per page—the total cost, without including plant, but including the preparation of lists for the printer, $22,463.90.

Upon reference to my estimate as embodied in your report to Council and printed in the first Annual Report of this Department, it will be seen that this is some hundreds of dollars within that estimate, viz., $23,059—and it will be seen that this is a saving upon the first printing of $84,399.34. Even adding the cost of the type and material required, $63,849.80, there is still a gain of $20,549.54.

Two presses were set up in the leased premises and employed upon the printing of these lists and other Departmental and Parliamentary work. The volumes of the Report of the Labor Commission, containing the evidence collected in Ontario and New Brunswick were printed on these presses, and the matter put in type also in the same office. These made 1,729 pages, costing $1,565.81.

ORGANIZATION OF BUREAU.

During the early part of the year a considerable portion of my time was devoted —as in 1887—to the examination and purchase of the plant necessary for the new establishment. This work was undertaken after careful examination of the nature of printing services required for Parliament, and the several Departments of the Government. Such materials as could be procured in Canada, in the time which I had supposed to be at my disposal, were ordered from Canadian establishments; but for the larger and more expensive printing machines it was found necessary to resort to the United States. For a considerable portion of the plant for the bindery orders have been sent to Great Britain. Altogether orders to the extent of about $125,000 have been given and a considerable portion of the machinery has been for some time ready, and awaiting the completion of the building for its delivery and putting in place. The boilers and engines have been procured from the establishment of Messrs. Polson & Co., Toronto, and do great credit to this great Canadian manufacturing establishment.

THE NEW PRINTING OFFICE.

I had hoped and was given to understand that ere the winter set in, the building now being erected for the use of this Department would be enclosed, and a portion of it at least ready for occupation. A considerable portion of the plant had been ordered for delivery as soon as possible after the 30th September. The boilers and engines were delivered here at the end of September. The boilers are in place; but the foundation for the engine has not yet been completed, nor is the floor of the press room, or its heating apparatus, prepared to receive and place presses and set them to work. As a great proportion of the delay in the execution of work results from the lack of sufficient presses in operation, this delay has been a serious disappointment to me and a hindrance to the work.

DEPARTMENTAL PRINTING.

The Government having leased the premises and plant of the late contractors, Messrs. MacLean, Roger & Co., I assumed the management of that establishment, pursuant to your orders, on the 1st of July last, and have used every exertion possible to turn out the work as expeditiously and in as good a style as possible. The amount of work is very large and is constantly increasing. It had altogether outgrown the capacity of the establishment turned over to us; there was no room fit for setting up new and better presses. But some slight though far from adequate relief was obtained by the occasional use of the presses set up at the office used for printing the voters' lists.

Under the circumstances the undertaking was an onerous one; but with the assistance of an efficient staff my expectations as to the possibilities of turning out the work with reasonable expedition have been realized, as I trust to the general satisfaction. At least I feel confident as a master printer of many years' experience that it was not practicable to achieve more without incurring an expense which I did not feel justified in doing If the Government is prepared to pay the price of night work all the year round, a system under which much less work per hour is turned out, and much more paid for it, some of the delays now complained of could be remedied. With the increased facilities of the new office there should be no need for this. But to secure satisfactory promptitude, the work of the Departments ordering the work must also be more punctually and methodically done. If requisitions are issued in time so that no "rush" is necessary; if proofs are promptly read and returned and if the Stationery Office supplies the necessary stock on which to print, good work and speedy work will assuredly be obtained. Without these aids all the exertions of the printers with the best appliances in the world cannot do what is now expected of them. In every one of these respects this office is now hindered in its work. Requisitions are delayed till the last moment, and then marked "rush." Rushed work is pretty sure to be of bad or indifferent quality. But that is not all; it often happens that the rushed work of the laggard who has been late in sending in his requisition, unfairly interferes with the execution of that ordered in reasonable time. Hence, very possibly dissatisfaction on the part of the heads of the unoffending, as well as the offending Department. Proofs have been kept for weeks, and sometimes months, in the Department, and that sometimes of work originally marked "immediate" or "rush." Only portions of copy, or imperfect copy is often furnished, and long weeks elapse with jobs in type, ere the finishing touches are given by the Department. With its present limited means, and limited storage the Stationery Office finds it impossible to keep a sufficient stock of papers, envelopes, &c., to meet many large, sudden demands; and this, also, is a fruitful cause of delays, for which the printers receive the blame. It is to be hoped, that in the much larger premises, now being prepared for that office, this cause of delay will be very much lessened, if not altogether obviated. It is to be hoped, at the same time, that a greater uniformity in the color of papers furnished by the contractors for blank books will be secured. I have repeatedly been compelled to keep the presses waiting after a job had been begun to procure a change of paper, more uniform with that already printed. A change also, is required from folded papers to flat, by using which more perfect registration in printing, and correct ruling and faint-lining could be obtained.

PARLIAMENTARY PRINTING.

Up to the present time the principal Parliamentary work executed has been the printing of Blue Books or Annual Reports of Departments, together with a few Bills. With respect to the former, I may here remark that the paper furnished seems to have been superior in quality and more satisfactory in every way than that employed in previous Sessions, and I am quite satisfied we have turned out better work.

During the printing of these Annual Reports for the present Session, I have had ample opportunity afforded me to observe the several operations through which they passed previous to their being sent to the Distribution Office, House of Commons. In the month of September I made applications for "printers' copy" of these reports, with the object of keeping the men employed, as it was customary to suspend a number of them during that month, and also to enable me to properly prepare for the work consequent upon the Session of Parliament, but I regret to say met with comparatively little success. As soon as the announcement appears in the Canada Gazette that Parliament is about to assemble for the dispatch of business, a general rush is usually made with just sufficient copy to place the sender in a position to say (if questions are asked) that the manuscript of the annual report is in the hands of the printer, and this is usually accompanied with the mild request that galley proofs of the same be sent without delay. Some of the departments prepare their copy carefully and return their proofs promptly, but as a rule corrections and reprints are numerous, with a tedious delay in the return of proofs.

Upon examination it will be found that the tabular statements of many of the reports and those contained in the report of the Auditor General are identical.

Taking into consideration the fact above referred to, the Department of Marine has set the example this year, by a considerable reduction in the size of their report; a course which will no doubt recommend itself to the favorable consideration of those in charge of the Annual Reports of the other departments for the ensuing year. This would lessen the work and secure greater economy.

It has been stated that the Parliamentary and Departmental work is, as a rule, not creditable, and the cause attributed to the inferior quality of the paper; to some extent this statement is true, but worn type and partially worn out presses have also not a little share in the kind of work turned out, and my experience is, that where good workmanship is looked for, time must be allowed wherein to execute it. From the present hurried manner in which the work is sent to, and demanded from, the printer, much greater perfection in this respect must not be expected.

If arrangements could be made by which the "printers' copy" of the reports closing on the 30th of June, could be sent in by the 1st of September, it would result in the following:—

1st. The compositors would be employed during a period in which they were formerly suspended.

2nd. I would be much better prepared for the printing of the reports closing on the 30th December.

3rd. The work would be performed during the day hours; consequently less expensive; and night work, that which is most objectionable to the workmen, notwithstanding the fact that they are paid extra for it, would be avoided.

The appended statement will show that the reports have been delivered as a rule, earlier this Session, than usual.

THE SENATE HANSARD.

The contract for the printing of the Senate Hansard having expired when the Government assumed the control of the printing, I was consequently called upon to take this work in hand, which is now being successfully carried on.

The whole respectfully submitted,

A. SENÉCAL,
Superintendent of Printing.
